

You found it.

This file exists for one reason: so that you could download it and then go and find it again on your own computer.

A download is never lost. It is in a folder, and the folder has a name - usually Downloads. Your browser can tell you where it put this one: look in its downloads list, and it will show you the folder.

That is the whole trick. Nothing on a computer disappears; it is just somewhere you have not looked yet.